Instructor: Donald Dickson
Course: 412
Title: Shakespeare

Description: This course will explore some of the key works of perhaps the most celebrated author writing in English, whose plays are still brought to life in most of the world’s languages, and give you the opportunity to refine your writing and research skills. We will be especially attuned to the plays he wrote around the year 1599—as he achieved his full maturity as a playwright—by reading James Shapiro’s micro-biography as context.
