Spring 2020 Course Description

Instructor: Dr. Jessica Howell
Course: HHUM 482/ ENGL 482
Title: Health Humanities Senior Seminar

Description: This is the required capstone course for the Health Humanities degree in University Studies. Students are expected to apply the skills and knowledge they have acquired during Health Humanities concentration coursework. Students will read scholarship on new directions in Medical/ Health Humanities, especially with an eye to developing their own individualized final project topic. They will develop this topic through a series of steps, including written proposal, oral presentation, and final project. As well as studying advanced concepts in the Health Humanities, students will have the opportunity of consulting with experts in their area of specialization (such as the philosophy or history of medicine, narrative medicine or clinical practice).

Proposed Readings: